SARJÚ BANDA with ISTVÁN BERE CZ

PERFORMANCE and TÁNC HÁZ
with dance teaching

ISTVÁN BERE CZ is one of the most popular and colorful personalities in the dance scene Hungary and a vibrant force in the folklore movement. He is an outstanding Hungarian folkdance performer and teacher and won the first internationally televised Fölszállott a Páva talent show in the folkdance soloist category. István is also the artistic director for the FONÓ, Budapest's most popular community meeting place for folklore enthusiasts.

SARJÚ BANDA is a well-respected and sought after Hungarian folk music band in Budapest. The band is highly popular among teenagers and regularly hosts TÁNC HÁZes (community folkdance events) at FONÓ. In 2016, the band won the best musical ensemble category at the Fölszállott a Páva talent show in the folk-music category and continue to appear routinely on television programs and in prestigious theatres. The band has recently released its first album featuring the exciting string folk music of the Hungarians living in the Carpathian Basin.
